*W*HEREAS, Americans are served every single day by public servants at the federal, state, county and municipal levels; and

*W*HEREAS, these unsung heroes do the work that keeps our nation going; and

*W*HEREAS, public employees take not only jobs, but oaths; and

*W*HEREAS, many public servants, including military personnel, police officers, firefighters, border patrol officers, embassy employees, health care professionals, and others, risk their lives each day in service to the people of the State of Connecticut, the United States and the world; and

*W*HEREAS, public servants include teachers, doctors, scientists, train conductors, astronauts, nurses, safety inspectors, laborers, computer technicians, social workers, and countless other occupations, who – day in and day out – provide the diverse services demanded by the American people of their government with efficiency and integrity; and

*W*HEREAS, without these public servants at every level, continuity would be impossible in a democracy that regularly changes its leaders and elected officials; now

*T*HEREFORE, I, Dannel P. Malloy Governor of the State of Connecticut, do hereby officially proclaim the week of May 1 – 7, 2011, as
